

Good, Bad, and Ugly Energies for the Last Half of 2013

There are a couple of really good energy combinations and also a couple of difficult energies in everyone's home or workplace for any particular month and year. If two hard energies cluster in a room for a month, consider not being there for it. Sleep or carry out important activities in areas with good energy. Below are beneficial and detrimental energy patterns for each month in the last half of 2013 with corrections.

Energy Patterns for August 2013 through January 2014

From August 7, 2013 – Add Fire/red in the NE and add Metal/white in the North for two beneficial areas of energy. Add Metal/white in the SW and center of the house for two areas of detrimental energy. Consider not sleeping in the SW sector.

From September 8, 2013 - Add Fire/red in the SE and NE for two beneficial areas of energy. Add Metal/white in the East and center of the house for two areas of detrimental energy. Consider not sleeping in the East sector in September.

From October 8, 2013 - Add Metal/white in the NE and North sectors for two beneficial areas of energy. Add

Metal/white in the SE and center of the house for detrimental energy.

From November 7, 2013 – The SW and NE sectors can be remedied this month by adding a Rock Salt Tank in these two areas. This consists of a large tank of water with a couple inches of rock salt and six metal coins, such as pennies placed on top of the salt. As the salt “grows” crystals up the side of the glass, good Earth energy is enhanced and bad Earth energy is reduced. Also add Metal/white in the center of the house.

From December 7, 2013 - Add Fire/red in the NE and Metal/white in the North for two beneficial areas of energy. Add Metal/white in the South and center of the house for two areas of detrimental energy.

From Jan 5, 2013 Until Feb 4, 2014 - Add Metal/white in the NW and Fire/red in the SE sectors for two beneficial areas of energy. Add Metal/white in the North and center of the house for two areas of detrimental energy.

Note: Energies tracked here are for the Year and Month. Consult with a Classical Feng Shui consultant for energies specific to the time period in your particular home... its Flying Stars.